We dedicate the 1954 Medley to every facet of Danville High School life that has left an impression on us:

To our teachers for developing our minds;

To our clubs for developing our hobbies and special interests;

To our athletics for developing our bodies and sense of fair play;

To the administration and everyone whose job it was to see that our school ran efficiently;

To our advisers for knowing "how to do things" when we had problems;

To the student body who furnished the reason for publishing a yearbook in the first place.

This year's Medley is built around dual themes. We have tried to refresh in the minds of our readers those rights which are a part of our American Heritage, and the way in which they are practiced in our schools. We should also like to show how, through the schools, qualities which will make people better able to appreciate and preserve these rights and assume their responsibilities in the future, have been developed in individuals.

Hi Jan

experiences • • •

We should remember that members of our faculty, too often looked upon as people out of the ordinary, have been through the same things we are now going through and have no doubt made some of the same mistakes we are making. To those of us who will listen, a great opportunity is given to profit from the experience of those older and wiser than we. Our teachers prepare us for what lies ahead, whether it be college or a full time job after graduation from high school. They strive to plant in us the seed of curiosity and to develop our initiative and resourcefulness in confronting new situations.

City

... to make our city schools the best possible, Dr. J. McLean Reed has put forth a praise-deserving effort. His job as superintendent of the Danville City Schools has been a large one, but has been very capably handled. Not willing to stop with this huge job, Dr. Reed has extended his talent to many civic organizations. His patience, knowledge, and understanding have made him a friend to all who come in contact with him.

The secretarial staff of Superintendent Reed's office is one that is deserving of all praise and recognition that can be given it. Doing all secretarial work for Dr. Reed, keeping the records for sixteen public schools, and doing all filing for but only a fraction of the work carried out by these hard workers.

Mr. Loy O. Froman in his second year as Business Director of the Danville City Schools has proved that the faith shown in him when he was appointed to this job was justified. It was his job to coordinate the purchases of the various schools and to oversee the spending of all money.

Administration

For the past five years, Dr. H. Williamson has led the Board of Education in its struggle for the betterment of public schools. The board was composed of civic-minded people who gave freely of their time in an effort to make the schools function smoothly and properly. With the aid of the seven members of the board Dr. Williamson has done much toward this cause.

High School

Mr. E. D. Milhon, principal of Danville High School for the past six years, has put forth much time and effort toward a better and more complete education for teen-agers. Being the father of a teen-age girl, he has learned that understanding and sympathy of everyday problems were most needed in making a success of his position. It was in using this knowledge that Mr. Milhon became the friend he was to all students.

Butler University, M.S.

As director of guidance, Mr. E. A. Bates performed various tasks. Students came to him for help in rearranging programs, adjusting schedules, and for counsel in preparation for college. One of his most important tasks was that of supervising scholastic tests. Throughout the year several personality IQ and vocational guidance tests were given to students who were interested. All Seniors were required to take tests on the Constitution of the United States and the State of Illinois, thus adding to the already heavy burden carried by Mr. Bates.

Administration

By using his wit and wisdom toward gaining the friendship of all Danville High School students and faculty members, D. V. Schoolcraft has become one of the most popular persons in DHS. It was through his guidance as Dean of Boys that many have been influenced toward better futures. Some of Mr. Schoolcraft's wise sayings such as "The empty cart rattles the most," will long be remembered as a part of life here at DHS.

Because of her interest in all Danville High School students and because of her kindness and willingness to help, Miss Helen Thompson will always be one of those individuals longest remembered by DHS graduates. Besides acting as Dean of Girls, Miss Thompson also served as advisor for Student Council and Y-Teens, and as director for student monitors. These organizations owe much of their success to the time and effort put forth by this energetic person.

The business office staff has the job of taking care of all money matters for the school. They control the finances of all DHS organizations and also are in charge of distributing tickets during football and basketball seasons, and of selling tickets for Moments Musical.

Cafeteria

Second Row: M. Pickard N. Bradford
 First Row: Herbert G. Bartow M. P.

Although DHS students didn't spend much of their time in the cafeteria, they enjoyed themselves every moment they were there. A pleasant atmosphere was created through the efforts of the cafeteria staff. Individual kindnesses which echoed over the lunch period created a friendly feeling among all.

New methods of serving the food were used this year in order to provide a more efficient service for the students. Six lines were formed—four for the plate lunch and two for the short order. This new system was possible because of new equipment which, although the students were not aware of it, was of much use to the kitchen staff.

The experienced kitchen staff spent much time in the kitchen. New steam tables were installed to keep the food hot. Student help was used to serve the food, scraped dishes, and served the lunch lines. A dishwasher, which was first used last year, contributed to time and energy-saving devices. Only because of the hard work of these people was it possible for the students to enjoy their lunch periods.

Mr. Chick Cole was in charge of the cafeteria, and he supervised all cafeteria details. Whenever the school held parties or other activities which required candy or potato chips, Mr. Cole took the responsibility of ordering them.

The students lined up for lunch.

Few of us ever stop to consider the job that is actually done by the maintenance staff of DHS. It is the job of these hard working men and women to keep the school neat and clean both inside and outside. Few of us stop to realize just how much extra work we cause them especially after basketball and football games. Because of their willingness to help, most of us know that it is not their job to come to the aid of students on special jobs such as cleaning up dropped ink bottles.

Head custodian, Mr. Earl Hartshorn, had the job of caring for stage scenery, lights, curtains, and the auditorium. Without his assistance it would have been impossible to present the various plays, assemblies and musicals put on by the organizations using the DHS stage.

C. J. Plymire served in the capacity of superintendent of all city school buildings and it was his duty to oversee the maintenance of these buildings.

The Danville High School PTA, composed of parents and teachers interested in promoting the welfare of their own and other children in the home, school, church, and community, met four times this year.

The programs for 1953-1954 were of wide variety and interest. At the September meeting the freshman parents were honored. All who attended toured the building and later were served refreshments in the Home Economics Department. A talk on juvenile problems was featured at the November meeting by sociologist James Cook. Seven past presidents were present at the February meeting at which a film on world trade was shown. A student panel was the highlight of the April meeting when DHS students were honored.

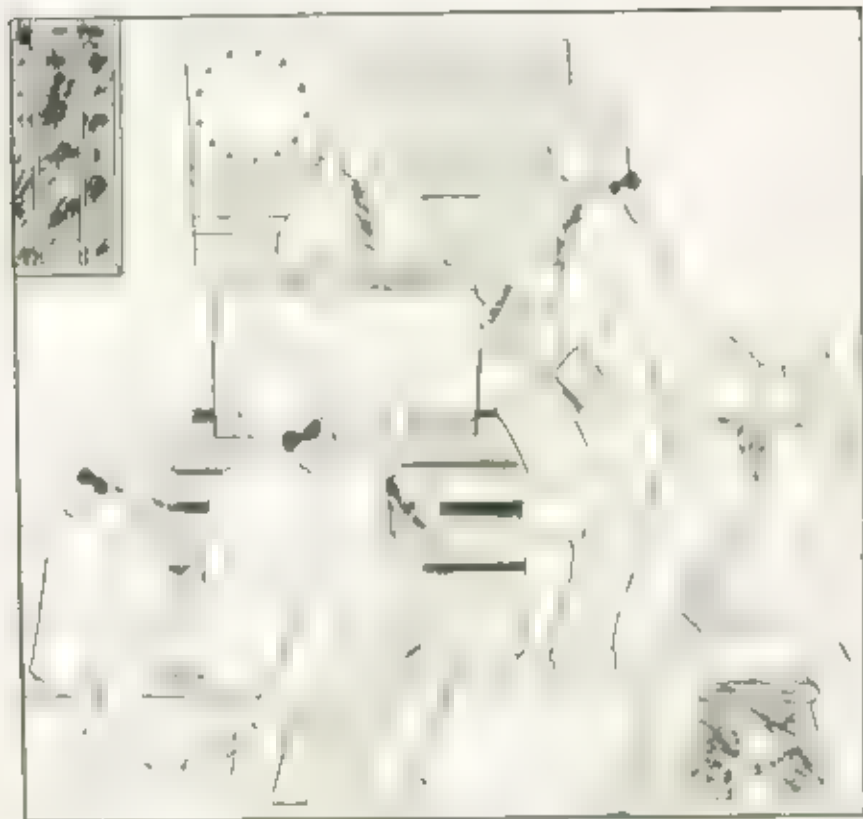

The major project of the PTA was a student aid fund which provided $100 per dean annually for the aid of needy students. Each dean distributed the fund as he saw the need. Another project was that of conducting a survey for the city school board to determine the potential growth in the school enrollment in Danville. The members of the Douglas School District assisted with this project, which was done in cooperation with PTAs in other cities.

Officers of this year's PTA were Mrs. Paul Timmons, president; Mrs. Melvin Lewis, 1st vice president; E. D. Milhon, 2nd vice-president; Mrs. A. R. Brandenberger, secretary; Mrs. Wilard Shipman, treasurer; Mrs. Frank Estes, program director; and Mrs. Walter Yovaish, membership director.

Clubs give right of free expression • • •

For many years students at D.H.S. have enjoyed belonging to the many clubs found here. Beside the fun of association with friends, there are many benefits to be gained from club work. One of these is the opportunity to discover and develop new hobbies and special interests. In four years of club membership a student learns to be a follower with opportunities of developing into a leader. A student also profits from expressing his own ideas and in turn listening to the ideas of other students and older experienced people who appear before him. The right of free assembly then means much to our school.

first yearbook was published back and since that time it has been recording the highlights, the fun, the tears, and the joys of life in DHS. Each year though the goal of the book has remained the same the staff has striven to improve in every way possible.

Early in the year the job of the business staff began with an assembly at which time subscriptions were taken. It was the job of Bill Hannon and his staff to keep track of all records showing payments on subscription.

Selling ads to businesses in town began early the year, too and the whole Medley staff took part in this. Howard Redding and his assistant, Carl Groen, were in charge here and it was their job that pictures for the ads were taken, copy was and that the advertising section was correctly laid out.

Information about clubs, sports, and activities was gathered all through the year and Mary Bernard and her assistant, Phyllis Prast, were kept busy writing these for Medley use.

It was the job of the editor, Larry Allen, and his assistant, Phil Ribbe, to determine what pictures must be taken and then how they would be used in the book.

The theme of the book was decided by the editors and all work was under the guidance of the adviser, Miss Frances Watkins, and her co advisers Miss Betty Sulenberger, Mr. Ralph Espy, and Mr. Finley Hoagben.

It was the job of the photographers to take the pictures that appear in the Medley and because of the lack of experience this was one of the hardest jobs.

The school and organizations staffs headed by Betty Ross and Betty King respectively, had the job of seeing to it that the individual pictures and the activity section were in order and that all names were correct.

Sketches for division pages were provided by the art staff, and long hours were put in on this.

It is through the combined efforts of all these staffs that the Medley has come to you in its present form.

Maroon

Under the direction of its two advisers, Miss Katherine Stapp and Miss Esther Cowan, the Maroon and White continued its role as an essential part of the high school life of almost all DHS students.

The paper, which was delivered during homeroom period on Friday morning, kept everyone informed of life here at DHS. It also, however, brought amusement and good information through its many features and editorials.

This year the editorial staff was organized a differently, with an editor chosen to be responsible for the material on each page. Heading the staff was Tom Oreskovich as Editor-in-Chief, with Jim Hurley as Assistant Editor, with Bob Kolb, Judy King, Tom Kelsheimer, and Jim Vrentas each having the responsibility of one page.

Business staff has a never-ending job in keeping the finances end up. Collecting subscriptions and seeing and laying out ads are enough to keep them busy.

Bob Hible headed the business section this year as Business Manager. Working with him were Alice Pate in charge of advertising and Phil Hicks in charge of circulation. Every morning a group of homeroom 341 were all very busy as they received his quota of papers to deliver.

Working with the special income group of the Business Staff was Pat Hurley, whose special job was ordering senior name cards. Coxes were also sold by this staff at the basketball games. Another service which the business staff performed was the compiling of a student directory which was given as a bonus for prompt payment for the paper. We were all grateful to them for this.

Cub Staff

Potential journalists could be seen gathered in room 302 each morning during homeroom. Under the instruction of Miss Helen Conover, the Cubs became adept in all stages of producing a news paper. They were taught to lay out a paper, to write heads, news stories, and features, and to proofread.

Later in the year, the Cub Staff put what they had learned to use. They published two issues of the paper. Jane Palmer was named editor in chief. Julia Laker was co-editor. Other editors were news Linda Johnson and Rose Paras. Sports John Deck and Bob Burow. Make up Helen Elaine and Carol Stickler; photographers, Jim Cunningham and Ivan Read; artist, Wally Yovash; and lay-outs, Elsie Walker, Bob Burow, Jackie Mervin and copy and proofreaders, Nita Timmons and Carol Henderson.

Every Friday morning bits of news that had been gathered through the week were turned in to Miss Helen Conover and then under her direction were written as articles to be sent to the main staff in the Maroon. If any or some news had been missed by their reporters.

Whenever a vacancy arose on the Maroon and White staff the Cub who had put forth the most effort was given the opportunity to advance. Cub Staffers worked hard with an eye to the future and the time when they would be members of one of the major publications.

International Club

One requirement was made of students who wished to become members of International Club and that was that they were enrolled in a foreign language class at the high school.

Meetings were held the second Monday of each month in the Little Theatre. Talks by students from foreign lands, a discussion of pictures by foreign artists, and panel discussions featured some of the meetings. At the annual Christmas party, customs of other lands were discussed. Gifts were brought by the members to be turned over to the Salvation Army for its work.

The main interest of the club was to develop friendships between American and foreign students.

Foreign students who were in the school were invited to become members of the club. They were given the opportunity to meet their American pen-pals who were designated to be sent to the places they were most needed.

Successfully the club was led by Miss Gloria Roach, was Pat Zeppe in president. Other officers of the year were Sharon Myers, vice president; Robert Koib, secretary; Rose Paras, treasurer; and Joyce Rindt and Terry Waltzer, co-program chairmen.

The club met in the Little Theatre.

Student Council

An organization which was composed of presidents of various clubs, publications editors, athletic captains, and the representatives elected by their respective classes, Student Council gave the student body a voice in the activities of DHS. The council planned many assemblies and sponsored parties and met on Thursdays, sixth hour, in room 17.

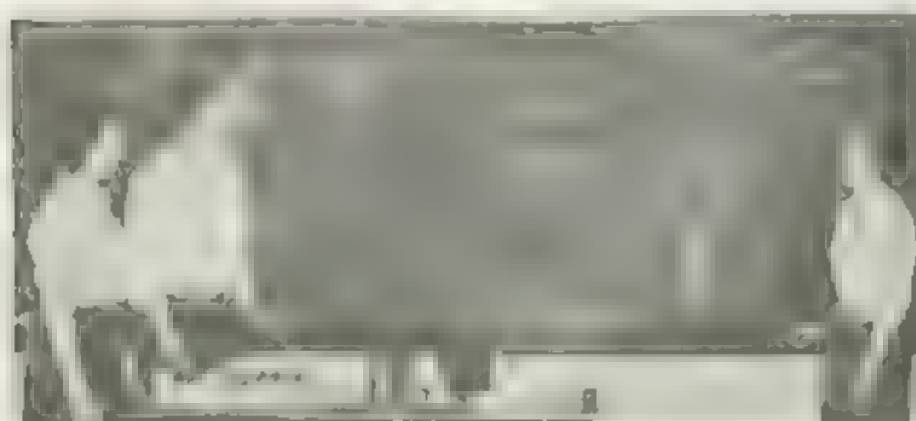

In the fall, the council tried a novel method of electing cheerleaders. Try-outs were held and the varsity cheerleaders were selected by the group made up of homeroom representatives and Student Council members. Student Council also sponsored Homecoming. The profits from the dance provided for paid assemblies, and it sent delegates to the State Student Council Convention. Other activities included the Courtesy Campaign, Talent Show, A.I. School Party, Medley Signing Party, Student Teacher Panel Discussion and the elections in the spring. Members of the Council had a picnic and hike at Turkey Run in April.

Several groups attended conventions and visited high schools in this area. They went to the State Convention in Chicago, District Convention in Hoopeston, and visited schools in Indiana.

President Joe Fox headed the organization this year, and he was assisted by the following officers: Ted Smith, vice-president; Carol Bahls, secretary; and Bill Stott, treasurer. Miss Helen Thompson was adviser for the Council.

Girls' Club

The purpose of the Danville High School Girls Student Club is to create, maintain, and extend bonds of friendship, social service, loyalty and patriotism; to discuss subjects of interest and helpfulness to girls; and to instill in the heart of each one a constant desire to gain and pass along the best things in life. With this purpose and the theme "Trails to Friendship" in mind, Girls' Club entered its 51st year, planning meetings of interest to all members. These meetings included talent shows, beauty discussions, slides on Europe, and a show. Mrs. Frances Meeks, founder of the club, was present at several meetings.

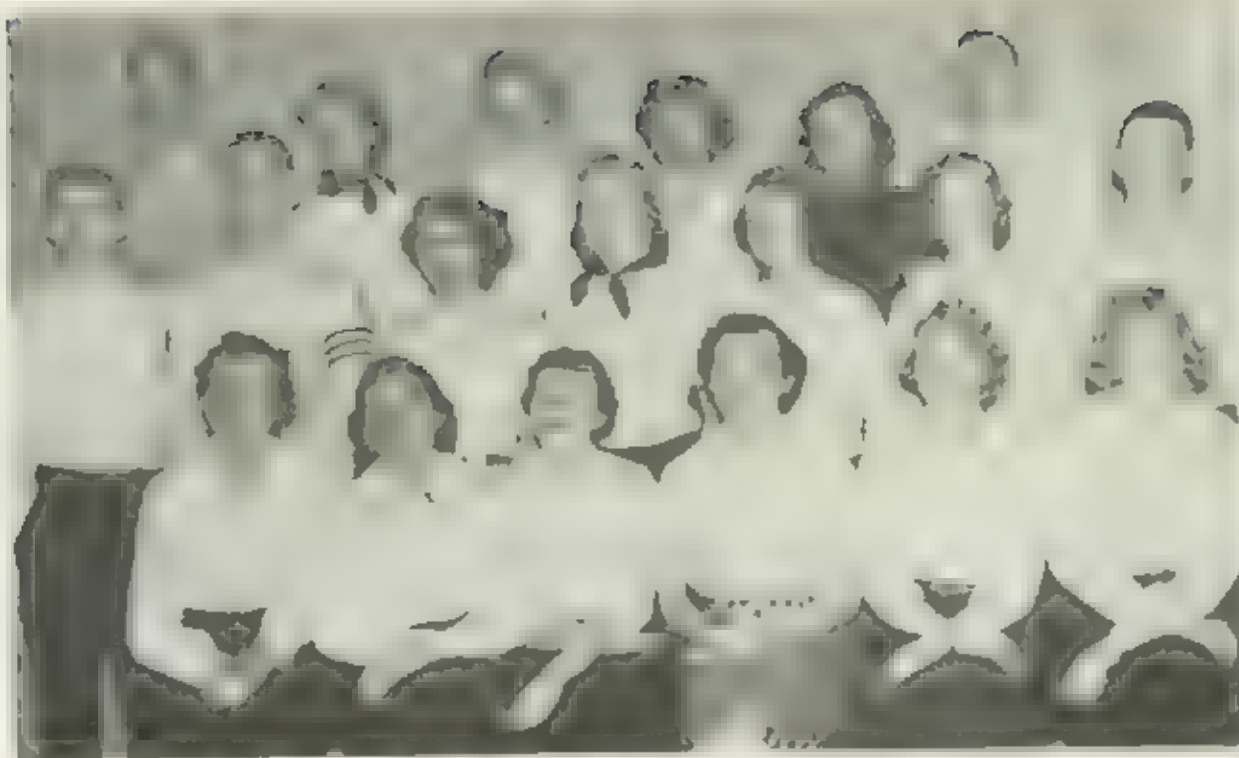

Some of the club's activities included selling football programs and refreshments at basketball games. During the Christmas season, a group of girls entertained patients at nursing homes in the Danville area. Also, Girls' Club presented its annual award to the Best Girl Citizen.

Janet Korngrebel was president for '53-54. Other officers were Mary Ann Leisch, vice-president; Phyllis Prast, secretary; Carol Bahls, treasurer; and Marilyn Mackin, pianist. Head adviser was Mrs. Harriet Rewerts, who was assisted by other faculty members in the different departments of the club.

Dramatic Club

Dramatic Club, one of the few DHS clubs whose membership was placed on a competitive basis was one of the largest school organizations. Membership was based on try-outs held before a committee of faculty judges in the fall and new members were introduced at the first meeting.

Each member of the club had a chance to perform at least once a year as one-act plays under student directors were presented at the meetings. In addition, the Dramatic Club play was given in February. This year a three-act comedy, "Stag Line," was given.

In the way of social events the club's outstanding project was the annual alumni Christmas banquet, at which time some of the returning alumni furnished entertainment.

Most of the credit for the success of the club was due to the work of their adviser, Miss Mary Muler and their officers, president, Mari Anne Davison; vice-president, Richard Castle; secretary-treasurer Virginia Divan; play critic, Janet Korngiebel; and play manager, Fred Mauck.

Wranglers Club

Any student in high school who was interested in public speaking and debating was given a chance to express himself at Wranglers Club. This club, the second oldest in DHS, was originally founded in 1911.

This year, in observance of Thanksgiving, the club planned and presented the annual assembly. The program consisted of skits, readings, and songs. This assembly helped DHS students view more clearly their reasons for being thankful.

One of the most interesting meetings was the one based on a Hawaiian theme. Miss Ruth Sanderson, head of the Social Science department, who had recently visited Hawaii, was guest speaker. Student speakers discussed the progress over 100 years Hawaiian music, and the pros and cons concerning statehood.

A special homeroom was for members of Speakers Bureau. This part of the club was open to any Wrangler who had given two speeches and was approved by faculty judges. During homeroom the orators learned and practiced their speaking abilities.

Richard Castle headed the club as president. He was assisted by vice-president, Sharon Myers; secretary-treasurer, Marilyn Mackin; membership chairman, Pat Rhode; program chairman, Tom Hawkins; and social chairman, Connie Sutton. Nancy Freeze was president of Speakers Bureau. Mrs. Grace Sprouls and Miss Ruth Sanderson were co-advisers of the club.

All phases of writing were discussed at Worth While Writers Club meeting. The purpose of the club was to develop creative skills and a better appreciation of prose and poetry. This club is open to anyone interested in writing, and one original writing had to be submitted for membership. Regular members handed in their writings throughout the year. These writings were read by the critic, who kept track of all writings, corrected and some were published in the Maroon and White. Other writings were read at meetings.

President Mary Bernard led the club through its successful year. Highlights of the year included a Valentine party, when everyone made an original valentine; a movie on the fundamentals of writing; talks on how to write; a spring picnic and a radio program on which members read their writings.

Mary was assisted by the following officers: Joanne Kleiner, vice-president; Marilyn Gogerty, secretary, and Joyce Rindt, treasurer. Phyllis Prast served as literary critic, and Cabinet chairmen included Judy King, program chairman; Kathryn Gugin, membership. Miss Boyer was adviser.

Home Economics Club is composed of girls interested in that field. At meetings, held on the second Thursday of each month, student demonstrations, guest speakers, movies, and group discussions made up the programs.

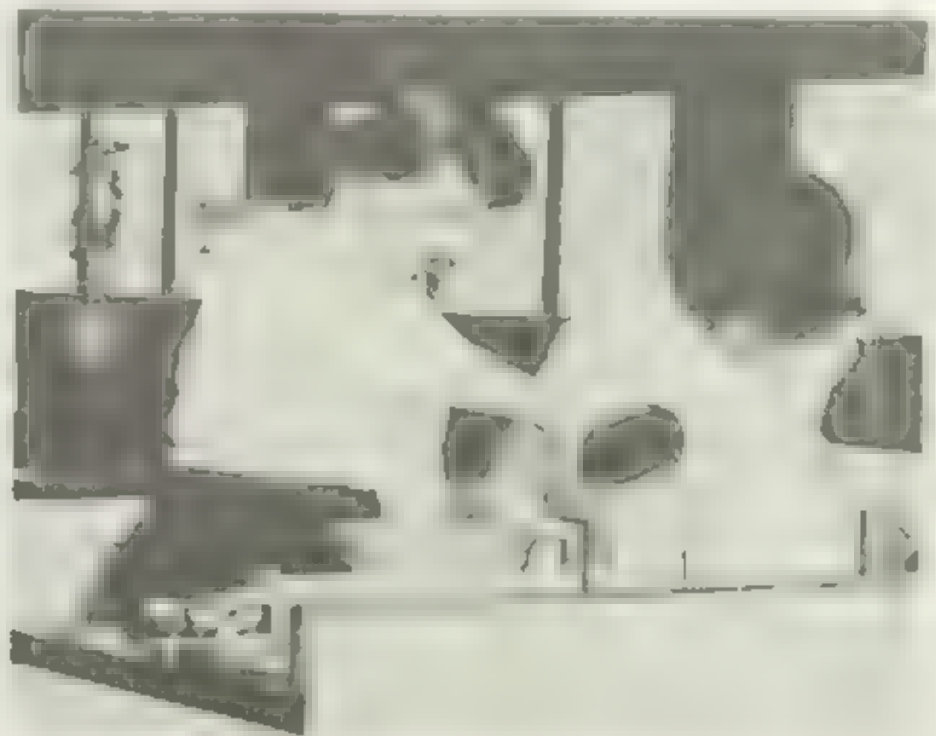

Social activities were certainly not lacking. A swimming party, a tour of Producers Dairy, a spring picnic, and a hamburger fry constituted the majority of them. The highlight of the year, however, was a style show and tea at which time the girls modeled some of the pretty clothes they had made through the year.

Virginia Eastman was president for the year and she was assisted by officers: Ann Chandler, vice-president; Charlotte Ferland, secretary-treasurer; Mary Ann Smith, publicity chairman; Judy Farley, social chairman; Sue Tevebaugh, program chairman; Pat Andre, parliamentarian and Linda Bishop, membership chairman.

The success of the club can be contributed in some part to the wise counsel given these girls by their advisors.

Practice in the kitchen was fun, too.

Art Club

Field trips to interesting places in Danvilleland were the highlights of '53-'54 season. Trips included a visit to Sandusky's Furniture Store. Another interesting meeting was presented by Bess Fullerton, who gave a demonstration on making handicrafts, including jewelry. At these regular meetings on every third Tuesday, discussions on different phases of art were held. Art Club membership was open to any student in DHS interested in art.

Art Club was also active in activities around DHS. All of the programs for the Homecoming Dance were made by art-clubbers. During the Christmas Season, members made the Christmas display in the north hall, including the papier mache figures under the tree. Art Club was also in charge of the distribution of tickets for the Alt-School Party.

Under Miss Betty Sullenberger as adviser, the following officers headed the club: Nancy Ostenburg, president; Mary Ann Pichon, vice-president; Jackie Roberts, secretary, and Irene Hafner, treasurer.

Science Club

What are flying saucers?" The answer to this and other such questions, was discussed at meetings of Science Club. Student demonstrations and films added variety to the meetings.

Science Club held meetings the first and third Thursdays of every month. The purpose of the club was to promote an interest in science, to promote the aims of science, and to study the uses of science in everyday life.

Led by President Richard Crang, this club participated in many educational activities. Members made several field trips. These trips included an exploration of the DHS tunnels and visits to the Danville City Waterworks, the Museum of Science and Industry in Chicago, and to the University of Illinois Engineering Open House. Other activities included an annual Christmas party and the presentation of a radio program as a part of the regular Radio Staff broadcasts.

Other officers for the year included vice-president, Alan Huffer; secretary-treasurer, Evelyn DeLatre; reporter, Bob Laury. The club was advised by Mr. Harold Seip and Mr. C. O.

President Wayne Mingee led the Hi-Y members this year. Their meetings, held the first and third Wednesdays of each month.

Invited speakers included school coaches, John Eckert from WDAN and Jake Higgins from WITY.

Guest speakers also discussed about his trip to Europe and his experiences.

Two representatives from the club were sent to the Youth and Government Program at Springfield where Carl Essling served as the Chaplain of the Senate. He was elected at a meeting in Champaign.

Affiliated with the Y.W.C.A., the club participated in many social service projects, visiting the Children's Home, Vermilion County Nursing Home, and The Tuberculosis Sanitarium. Y-Teens also sent delegates to the summer conference at Bradle University in Peoria, Illinois. Last summer, Harriet Burghem, Joanna Kleiner, Phyllis Prast, and Marjorie Vestal were representatives.

This year's officers were Joanna Kleiner, president; Janet Korngiebel, vice-president; Judy Dill, secretary, and Phyllis Prast, treasurer. Advisers were Miss Helen Thompson and Miss Ruth Smoot of Danville High School, and Miss Marilyn White of the Y.W.C.A.

Every first and third Wednesday the Phyllis Wheatley Y-Teens met either in room 244 at DHS for their business meetings or at the Y for a program. These programs were planned to interest any Y-Teen. Panel discussions and qualified speakers were featured at these monthly meetings.

One of the main projects of the year was that of selling salt-water taffy. Miss Kathryn Watts' room was headquarters for this project. The taffy was sold to DHS students and faculty.

Three members were sent to the Illinois State

Y-Teen Conference at Bradley University in Peoria. This conference was held the last week in August. Minerva Carter, Benita Chambers, and Louise Stringfellow attended, participating in all conference activities. They brought home many new ideas for their own club.

The officers were Minerva Carter, president; Benita Chambers, vice-president, and Frances Buford, secretary-treasurer. Two DHS faculty members, Miss Donna Stuebe and Miss Kathryn Watts, served as advisers.

Projectors Club, organized as a part of the Danville Audio-Visual Department six years ago, has rapidly become an important part of life around DHS. The club was responsible for the showing of all movies used in class work and also took charge of movies at the All-School Party.

It was only necessary for members, all boys who were trained in the use of projectors, to operate in one class period a week. A schedule was kept in club adviser Miss Grace Brandenberger's office and the boys checked with her on the schedule to see when they were to be operator.

The club with a membership of 56 had its own homeroom for the first time and Miss Helen Wolff and Mr. Bennett served as homeroom advisers.

Howard Carithers served as president of the club this year and his fellow officers were: vice-president, Phil Ribbe; secretary, Ed Meyer, and treasurer, Dave Clendenen.

At these meetings members discussed training to teaching, such as preparation, disadvantages, advantages, qualifications. Students also discussed situations encountered while practice teaching.

The one semester course was divided into two periods. The first six weeks the students gave speeches, and saw movies. The second period they visited grade schools out the city and studied the individual child. The third period each student taught in a grade school under the supervision of an experienced teacher.

At one meeting, a speaker from Eastern Illinois spoke on the teaching profession. Former members of FTA gave their opinions of their choice. The club also presented speeches at Hoopeson High School for a vocational program. Another activity was being co-sponsor of the Homecoming parade.

The officers for '53-54 were Arlene Hodgson, president; Jean Wade, vice-president; Dan Win and secretary; Betty King, treasurer, and Mari Anne Dev social chairman. Miss Katherine Stapp, teacher of the class, was adviser of the club.

Trips to various industries and businesses in Danville and Chicago offered valuable education and experience for FDA members. The highlights of the Chicago trip included the Merchandise Mart, Federal Reserve Bank, Museum of Science and Industry, Chicago Stock Exchange, and Kroger Bakery. The Danville visits included Paxton's Warehouse, Consolidated Products, City Hall, First National Bank and Florsheim Shoe Company.

Other activities included several parties held throughout the year. One outstanding social event was the Bosses' Banquet held at the Boat Club. The club sponsored a skating party and sock hop at the Mini Roller Palace. Six members attended the State FDA Convention at Springfield. The club also sponsored a trip to Washington for Seniors.

FDA consisted of members of the Distributive Education Class. This class, open to any senior interested in entering business, attended school in the morning and worked in the afternoon. These people learned the various aspects of working through Mr. Newton's lessons and personal experience.

The class elected the following officers: Larry Laker, president; Dick Pierce, vice-president; Sharon Griffith, secretary; Carol Beltrone, treasurer, and Patricia Dickson, reporter.

Joyful songs and music echoed from room G202 during first hour every day. There the A Cappella Choir, under the direction of Miss Pansy Legg and accompanied by Miss Helen Wolff, worked hard to achieve perfection for its various performances. Friendship and sportsmanship were also emphasized throughout the year.

This active group was busy preparing for some event almost every day. Several civic organizations called upon them to present music programs. Work was begun at the beginning of the year for the first major production, Fall Concert. Immediately following this, members began practicing for the Christmas Assembly. Another Yuletide event was caroling in the halls by the music students. After the holidays it was "back to work" as preparations for the annual Moments Musical started. This year the choir recaptured the spirit of the days of the old west. Next the Big 12 Music Festival was held in Danville, and finally came the graduation exercises.

However, all of the choir's activities weren't work. Parties were held throughout the year, especially after each major production. At the Swing Ding in April, awards were presented for work in music.

Officers for 1953-1954 were the following: Pat Hurley and Ted Smith, presidents; Bill Cornwell and Janice Mahoney, vice-presidents; Kay Taylor, secretary; Mari Anne Davison, treasurer; Carl Noble, monitor, and Margo Lomborn, Donna Evans, Jean Sumrall and Lucia Hatton, librarians.

Euterpeans

Sweet Coleen was pleasing to a

Just as members of the chorus classes hoped to become part of A Cappella, A Cappella members aspired for Euterpeans. It was quite an honor to achieve this goal. Becoming a member of this select group was difficult for Euterpeans were chosen on the basis of several qualities. These included voice quality, dependability, and showmanship. The chief activity of this group was the presentation of the first unit of Moments Musical. The more difficult vocal arrangements were done by Euterpeans.

This year, for Moments Musical the eighteen couples danced and sang to the tunes of Irish melodies in "A Spot In Old Ireland." The perfection and harmony were the results of hard work and long practices. Every night after school from early January until late in March, the group rehearsed its complicated routines. Although it was hard work, each member admitted it was worth it.

This group of eighteen couples sang and danced "The Kerry Dance." Next, Fred Mauck sang about "The Tumble Down Shack in Athlone." Patricia Henk flitted through "My Name Is Kelly," as she portrayed the Rince Fada Dancer. The entire group combined talents to present "Sweet Coleen." So at last Jack Drews asked "How Are Things in Giocca"; Elaine Milhon and John Miller joined together in singing "The Donovans." Finally, the curtain closed on the 1954 group of Euterpeans.

This group was under the direction of Miss Pansy Legg and was accompanied by Miss Helen Wolff.

 Sister I'm with you. May I be with you always.

George N

Rickie,

I'm in a with you (I'm at times) but I'm which isn't much.
 I have a very
 May I be with you always.

Love Ya,

Susan

Ann

Cole

Rickie,

It's been nice you in my
 you keep up your smile and great personality and you will go far May God Bless you and your family.

Rickey,

It's been great going to school with you all these years. Just think, in two more years you will be the mighty Seniors of "42".
Won't that be great. You're really a great guy and a wonderful friend to have. Always stay as sweet as you are now and everything will always come your way. Lots of luck in everything you attempt to do.
May the best always come your way because you really deserve
it. Be sweet and keep that cute smile and you'll have it all. May God bless and keep you always.

Love,
Marlene

much! Love Richly

I think you are a great guy
I wish you the best of luck everyday! May God Bless you!
You are of my Best friends!

Love

Bill M.

Nicky,

We had some of your class and some of your friends in the classroom. We think you are a great guy. I hope next year you are a Senior!

The next step is to be a Great Junior. I hope you are very sweet and I hope that you have the best of luck throughout your life.

I'll love you,
Ginda

Ricky,

It has been really great fun getting to know you this year. In 6th period study hall we have fun. Good luck in the future. Mary
